

Parts Search Listing

List your products on one of the largest military reference sites on the internet.

Integrated publishing (www.tpub.com) in partnership with Parts Hangar are innovating the online market for parts distribution through an exciting new service that will be coupled with the already extensive database and search service that houses millions of manuals and specifications! Your inventory database will be combined with supplier listings and added to our logistics section (www.tpub.com/logistics). From there, your information will be cross-referenced with existing parts manuals, and your products will be added to a search option that incorporates readily available part numbers on Google. This system will cover multiple search engines and coincide with our own network to provide a much larger online presence for potential customers than conventional listing services alone.

While other services charge a monthly fee for both listing and search services, we will only charge a fee for product listing. As a provider, you will only be charged a fee based on the number of products you wish to promote. When the items are listed, they will become accessible to the world at no charge to the consumer searching for your products. At nearly four million pages viewed monthly and nearly two million monthly unique visitors, Integrated Publishing provides an impressive sales platform and consumer base for your needs, and Parts Hangar provides the necessary experience and know-how to help you succeed! Integrated Publishing and Parts Hangar offers your customers an invaluable service without the hassle of paying additional fees just to get to the products you wish to sell, while providing you with the expansive network to get your business seen!
